

Rose Hill

by Kitty Boots

guitars riot
southern songbirds
entombed

rain streaks grave stones rivulets stifle young grass on the well-trodden path

angels and lambs
drunkards and whores
the detritus of a thousand dreams sweet, jazzy riffs play with the wind a crescendo to die for all in memory of Elizabeth Reed

