

A Walk

by Niya C. Sisk

I suppose the lazy trees would have a thing or two
To say about love
All twirled and wrapped into the leaves and branches
Of the other
At the top of their sky

Never having to get out of bed.

