

Living on Non-Skid Row

by Jerry Ratch

Here's the local group of grumpy gray-haired men
Chewing over politics as if it's important
As if their endless discussing of it,
Waving their hands in the air, gesturing,
Is going to change the world

How do these guys stop from having heart attacks
All the time?
Because they don't work, that's how
They have trust funds

I saw one old guy wearing a jester cap and bells
Bearing the word: Grumpy
And I just wondered who he had to push over
To get that hat?
