Pink

by Terese Svoboda

In China I remembered you only once: the restaurant's speciality, chosen from a braid of live varieties, spiraled to the floor while the waiter flayed it with a knife flicked from his wrist. The snake made your initial over and over the black tile. What pain? Love's all touch was the ideogram it made as it crossed the hot stones to the table.